Business Applicant Information

In this section, enter information about the business that is applying for this SBA loan . This is the company that will borrow the funds, sign the loan documents, and be responsible for repayment. If the borrowing company has not been formed yet, check "Entity to be Formed."

The business address is the physical street address where your business operates. This should be your main operating location—not a P.O. Box. The project address is the physical address of the project being financed—such as a new location, renovation site, construction project, or the property being purchased. You only need to complete this section if the project address is different from your main business address.

Business Applicant Ownership

SBA requires information on all natural persons (real human beings) who own 20% or more of the applicant business. This includes both direct ownership (owning shares in the business directly) and indirect ownership (owning shares through another entity like an LLC, corporation, or trust).

In the table below, list every individual who holds an ownership interest — directly or indirectly — in the borrowing entity. Ownership percentages must total 100%. Ensure names match official identification and legal documents exactly. In the case of indirect ownership, explain the relationship between the individual owner and the entity through which they own an interest in the business applicant.

Note: If there are more owners than available rows, add those details to the box at the bottom of the page.

SBA Eligibility

1. Have any of the applicants ever been convicted of a criminal offense? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any owner or individual applicant has been found guilty of a misdemeanor or felony in a court of law. Minor traffic violations (speeding, parking) do not count. The SBA evaluates past criminal history to determine eligibility for federal financing and to comply with federal background-screening requirements. A conviction does not automatically disqualify an applicant—SBA simply needs accurate disclosure.

2. Are any of the applicants currently subject to an indictment, criminal information, arraignment, or other means of formal criminal charge? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant is presently facing formal criminal charges, awaiting trial, or has an unresolved indictment or legal accusation. Federal rules prohibit the SBA from approving a loan when an applicant is currently charged with a crime. This disclosure ensures legal compliance and prevents delays in processing the loan.

3. Are any of the applicants parties to any pending lawsuits? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant is involved in an active civil lawsuit—either as a plaintiff (bringing the suit) or as a defendant (being sued). Pending litigation can affect the financial stability of the borrower. The SBA and the lender must assess whether the lawsuit could impact the applicant's ability to repay the loan.

4. Are any of the applicants currently delinquent on any child support obligations? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant is behind on court-ordered child support payments by more than 60 days. Federal law requires the SBA to verify that applicants with more than 60 days of unpaid child support are not eligible for SBA assistance. This protects federal program integrity and ensures compliance with federal debt policies.

5. Are any of the applicants subject to any tax liens? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant currently has federal, state, or local tax authorities placing a lien on their assets due to unpaid taxes. Outstanding tax liens may affect borrower eligibility and repayment ability. The SBA requires full disclosure so lenders can evaluate financial risk and determine whether tax obligations must be resolved before loan approval.

6. Have any of the applicants ever been involved in a bankruptcy proceeding? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant has filed for or been involved in personal or business bankruptcy, including Chapter 7, 11, or 13, and whether the bankruptcy has been discharged or is still active. Bankruptcy does not automatically disqualify an applicant, but it must be reviewed to assess repayment ability and creditworthiness.

7. Are any of the applicants delinquent on any federal debt? Yes ☐ No ☐

Whether any applicant is behind on payments owed to a federal agency. Examples include: SBA loans, FHA or VA loans, federally guaranteed student loans, federal tax debt, or any other debt owed to the U.S. government. Federal law prohibits approving SBA loans when an applicant is delinquent on federal debt. SBA uses this information to determine eligibility and prevent conflicts with other government credit programs.

8. Do any direct or indirect owners of the applicant business lack U.S. Citizenship or U.S. National status, or maintain their principal residence outside the United States, its territories, or possessions? Yes ☐ No ☐

If you answered yes to any of these questions, please explain here.
